St. Petersburg.—The ubiquitous American trader appears to have discovered a part, at least of northern Siberia and to have made it his own. So strong a hold in fact has he secured upon the natives of that little known part of the world that while the American silver dollar is taken with avidity in trade, the Russian trader who offers two Russian rubles for the same amount of goods is looked upon with suspicion.

Lieutenant Arbeniev of the Russian navy, who was a member of the Russian expedition which upon its arrival at St. Michael, Alaska, a few weeks ago, reported having found a large body of land forming the counterpart of Nova Zemlya, and enclosing the Kara sea, in a book on the work of the expedition in 1912, just published, was humorous about the American traders met with during the voyage.

Wherever natives congregated, he says, there stood the tell-tale log cabin, whence silver dollars, American rifles and canned goods were doled out in return for the precious furs in which the land abounds. The offer of two rubles instead of one silver dollar was in many cases treated with suspicion.

Lieutenant Arbeniev argues that it is about time the Russians took more interest in their own lands and people. He records a visit paid to the Taimyr and Waigatch, the two steamers of the expedition, when off Tcheliushkin at the end of August, 1912, by Tunguz, a chieftain styled Brodovskiy, which means beaver, who proudly displayed a medal conferred upon him by the president of the United States for securing the survivors of the Jenette Arctic expedition.

The influence of the alien traders, says the lieutenant, does not seem to have been physically harmful to the natives, but quite the contrary, so far as the appearance of the younger generation is concerned. They have, however, been unable to alter the indelible filthy habits of the Siberian Redskins.

The discovery of the new land by Captain Wilkitzky, the commander of the expedition which arrived at St. Michael, is the result of the endeavors of the Russian government to render commercially practicable the northern sea route to the far east. The captain is a son of General Wilkitzky, who died in February last, and who as chief of the Russian hydrographic service signed the instructions for the survey of the northern Siberian coast for which the present expedition was organized.

The Taimyr and Waigatch are ice-breakers specially built to perform the northern voyage from Vladivostok to St. Petersburg, and are equipped with wireless installation. Every year since 1910 a section of the coast has been surveyed, and an attempt was made to reach European waters without wintering. Last year the expedition was unable to reach Cape Tcheliushkin. The leader, General Sergiev, who has subsequently invalidated, declined to proceed northward and turned back to Vladivostok.

According to the opinion of hydrographers, Captain Wilkitzky decided at any cost to come westward, even if he had to winter in the Kara sea. In these circumstances he boldly moved northward and made the important discovery of new land, which he has reported in a laconic message to the put into St. Michael for coal and because of slight damage received during a storm, he says: "We continued our survey as far as Cape Tcheliushkin, where the ice proved impracticable. We then went north, seeking a passage. We discovered land extending over 200 miles as far as latitude 81 north, longitude 96 east. Being unable to get through, we turned back. On Bennett island we took the collection left by Baron Toll, and in that neighborhood discovered a new island."

Cape Tcheliushkin, in Siberia, is the most northern point of the mainland of Asia. Bennett island is the most northern member of the new Siberian group, and lies about 600 miles east from Cape Tcheliushkin. The Jenette was lost in 1881, at a point 100 miles east of Bennett island, after drifting in a west-north-westerly direction for two years. In 1884 objects believed to have been from the wreck of the Jenette were picked up on the southwest coast of Greenland. It was upon the current which conveyed these relics that Nansen relied in his expedition with the Fram during which he achieved his farthest north in April, 1895.

The presence of land in these regions was not unexpected, although the expeditions of Nordenskiöld, Nansen and Toll passed through what are now known to be comparatively narrow straits without leaving any record of any such discovery.

London.—David Lloyd George, chancellor of the British exchequer, is the most popular man in Italy, according to Weichman returning from the continent. The common people of Italy, in discussing the English statesman, say that his well known measures, such as pensions for old people, insurance, etc., are greatly needed in Italy. Whenever Lloyd George speaks in or out of parliament every word he says is printed in the Italian papers. Much more space is given to his speeches than to the utterances of the prime minister of Italy. His remarks are read avidly by workmen who can read to their friends who cannot. British questions are Italy's questions. There are movements in each country in the same direction, and the Italian workman believes that the British leader is the prophet of the new era.

POOR HEALTH IS REASON FOR McMANIGAL'S RELEASE
Los Angeles, Cal., Nov. 5.—"The poor health" of Orville McManigal, the confessed dynamite, was the official reason given yesterday by District Attorney John D. Fredericks for ordering what is to be the permanent release from the county jail of the untold co-worker of the McNamara brothers and chief witness against 33 union labor officials who were sentenced to the federal penitentiary at Leavenworth for complicity in a nation-wide dynamite conspiracy.

"McManigal has been in poor health for some time," said Fredericks, "and he has been taken out of jail on the advice of a physician."

"Will he be returned when he has recovered?"
He may be back in a few days, a few weeks, or a few months," was the answer.

"Will he positively return at some time?"

Mr. Fredericks closed the interview without replying.

According to jail attendants, McManigal's appetite and constantly increasing girth and weight indicated that his ill health might have been due to overeating.

Daily United States Weather Map

EXPLANATORY NOTES.
Observations taken at 8 a. m., 7th meridian time. Air pressure reduced to sea level. Isotherms (continuous lines) pass through points of equal air pressure. Isotherms (dotted lines) pass through points of equal temperature; drawn only for zero, freezing, 50°, and 100°. Clear: ☉; partly cloudy: ☁; cloudy: ☁; rain: ☔; snow: ❄; report missing: ☁ with the wind. First figures, lowest temperature past 12 hours; second, precipitation of .01 inch or more for past 24 hours; third, maximum wind velocity.

WEATHER CONDITIONS.

The crest of the area of high pressure, with its fair, cool weather, has drifted to the Ohio valley and lower temperatures have extended to New England. The northwestern low remains central over western Canada, but it has caused a sharp rise in temperature from the northern Rocky mountain sections eastward to western Iowa and Minnesota and rains from British Columbia southward to northern California. Showers in Texas, Oklahoma and Kansas have resulted from a disturbance which is off the west gulf coast. Owing to the slow eastward movement of the high and the effects of the northwestern low, fair weather is indicated for this vicinity tonight and Thursday, with warmer tonight.

WAGNER'S REVIEW

Closing Stock Letter.

New York, Nov. 5.—Notwithstanding the lower range of quotations from London, the uncertainty as to the Mexican situation, the market here took on a better tone, almost from the start. It was thought that the results of yesterday's elections were in some measure responsible for the better feeling; it would appear, however, that the rather alarming statements contained in some of Saturday's and yesterday's papers with regard to Mexico, were found to have been exaggerated, and that the market was reflecting its relief as regards the dis## agreeable implications contained in these newspaper dispatches.

Undoubtedly the market's technical position had much to do with the improvement; the floating supply of stocks is small, and the buying of any consequence soon enough lifts the price level. Mexican news will probably continue to dominate trading for the time being and barring any very serious developments, it would seem to us as though purchases made on recessions, should prove profitable.

Liverpool Situation.

Liverpool, Nov. 5.—Wheat lower on continued realizing. The decline in Winnipeg, better reports from India and Argentine and sympathy with corn served to create bearishness and selling for profits predominated. The continued large receipts at Winnipeg increase in the visible there and free Canadian country offers with indications of heavy Canadian exports until the close of navigation helped the decline.

Corn—Lower with the principal pressure in December. Talk of large Argentine shipments weakness in plate spot here larger European offers caused liquidation.

Morning Grain Letter.

Chicago, Nov. 5.—Outside question of a wheat bulge on chance of a little Mexican excitement the general grain situation is momentarily soft. General news on wheat, corn and oats this week suggests a 3-cent dip from recent highs. A number of local traders, however, figure that the Mexican situation is ready to assume role of lead factor. They cannot prove that United States interference will be bullish, but they believe some excitement that will affect wheat may result. All grains require assistance of immediate bull news. Local bears claim Canada has exported 10,000,000 oats to United States in all. There are further hints of crop underestimation from the northwest. The remarkable sequence of liberal world wheat crop news that has spread over 1910-13 seems to continue. Heavy advance fall plowing everywhere is reported. Hogs are down to 7½c and western hog run yesterday was double last year. Looks as if the hogs are coming and the November and December hog receipts will be as usual very heavy. Provisions should work lower. Corn bulls rarely display extended courage in November and the country is waiting an investment break. We are so near the new corn run that there is no worry as to old corn supplies. Argentine and Indian news in morning cables again favorable.

Theories and Opinion.

Chicago, Nov. 5.—The general grain list may stage a 3c downturn from the recent May highs of 91½c, 72c and 43½c. A sag of this extent on ## this situation should bring its own

fast rally. Any Mexican interference would affect the grains but slightly. Eastern security and cotton reviews are still "mixed" as to sentiment.

The Argentine news of today failed to suggest a surplus in excess of 105,000,000. Wheat market feels absence of European demand. The foreigners has dropped us for the moment.

East of Chicago the wheat states are heavily marketed and the red winter wheat crop is branded seriously overestimated. That 10c red wheat premium endures. These factors will be later factors.

Basis of December wheat levels there is no automobile oil in north-west wheat prices on the farm. The wheat situation is merely a question of working through the milk of winter consumption. The cereal is cheap.

Nov. 1 to 4 western run of hogs liberal. Country always ships small. Packer not an accelerator of hog prices at this time.
